

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An MRAM has an internal test circuit. This test circuit detects a bit in a memory cell array, which has a shift in write characteristics, as a defective bit by 5 using a method of applying a one-axis write current along an axis of hard magnetization.